Concerning the Date of the Christmas Celebration

De 21:23

The first day in ancient Rome was Sunday – the day of “sol Invictus”, that means that of the “invincible God of the sun”. The Jewish celebrated the seventh day of the week as a holiday -- the Sabbath or Saturday. So, folks, you can also celebrate Sunday as your holiday because it is no Christian one but Mithraic. For a post-Christian world, we do not have to change very much. However, even Christmas is a very pagan and no Christian festivity. On the 25th of December, the ancient Romans celebrated the party of the "Sol Invictus" who – as already mentioned -- was regarded as the God of the sun.

First, when Christians got to dictatorship, they attempted to annihilate all Pagan habits and science. However, regarding this holiday, they stayed powerless. Without further the skilled liars and deceivers postponed the birthday of their instigator (Jesus) they had lifted up to their god from the 6th of January to the 25th of December. The 6th of January even today still is commemorated as the party of the "Three Kings or Saints (Wise Men) from the East" or as "Epiphany" which means appearance of god -Since that time Christians pretend to tell that this celebration is a Christian one. Since then, they are used to feigning this celebration as a Christian one, i.e. as the birthday of their instigator Jesus.

That is the typical practice of folks to which lie and deceit have become a matter of course. The postponement of the birthday of Jesus by a couple of weeks is not the worst forgery and deceit of this sect faking "truths" and "love"...

This exemplarily illustrates how the Christian dastards handle truths. Promptly, they are ready to commit distortions, falsifications and even barbarities if they are unable to succeed honestly. Roman soldiers brought the cult of the „Sol Invictus“ from Persia to Rome. It existed already long before Zarathustra, who lived in Persia in the 6.th Century before C.E. Zarathustra attacked the cult of Mithras very heavily. He was the inventor of the dual system of good and evil and that of a doomsday.

The Christians' instigator who is lifted up to the Christians' fake of "god" only was a very poor imitator of Zarathustra. However, even Zarathustra could not terminate the Mithras cult. The Zoroasters, however, did not commit that falsehood, to declare this party of Mithras as one of their own -- as Christians did and are used to doing. Mithras was called the god of contract to the Vedian Indians. Likewise, this cult was spread out up to Persia. Especially the Persian tribe of the Medians performed this cult. Influences of the cult of Mithras on Zoroastrianism and Zervanism via that one to Manichaeism are recognizable.

Mithras was introduced to ancient Rome from Persia by Roman soldiers. If the notion of Mithras was already common to the citizens of ancient Rome then it becomes a matter of course that those Christians of Palestine had heard about it. In this treatise, we are going to prove that the early Christians and even Jesus actually knew that story of Mithras, in the minutiae. That is important for some contents of the Christian Christmas fairy tale.

Since they were helpless to abolish this very pagan party, they postponed the birthday of their instigator Jesus from the 6th of January to the 25th of December - that exemplary demonstrates how they deal with truths. [i] In a similar many pagan holydays the Christians impostors -- being fond of strutting in cribbed plumes -- lied as ones of their own...
